DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hafner et al. '076 in view of chapters 13-15 of the cited "Production and Operations Management" manual.

Hafner et al. disclose or inherently teach all of the limitations of the claims including employee management rights (see Col. 7, lines 59-66), but lack the specific teaching of receiving data from a "plurality" of outlets and the specifics of the manager's responsibilities.

The manual discloses an appointed manager's responsibilities in managing a supply chain, in addition to teaching that a level of a supply chain can include a plurality of outlets.

It would have been an obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Hafner et al. to have the system receive data from a "plurality" of outlets and to include specific responsibilities of managers, in view of the "Production and Operations Management" manual, in order for a retailer to ensure that products will continue to be received even when one supplier fails to deliver, and further to maintain control of costs, revenues, and ultimately the success of the firm (See manual, page 423, lines 2-5).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
